

PROBLEM SOLVERS

WEAK DAMAGED HAIR

● All the styling and colouring we do to our hair inevitably damages it. The internal hair structure loses substance and resistance and the result is a dull, unhappy hairdo. So what's the solution? Stop styling altogether and go out looking wild and woolly?

Happily not, thanks to the people at Kerastase who have come up with a strengthening product that is heat activated. You need to give hair a blast with your blow-dryer to get it working.

The Kerastase Resistance range includes a shampoo and conditioner. But our favourite is the new Ciment Thermique, $38, a heat-activated reconstructing milk, fragranced with a yummy citrus scent.

This is a leave-in milk designed to be used with heat styling tools to leave hair stronger and shiner.

Ciment Thermique couldn't have appeared at a better time since we've just become addicted to a new styling tool. The VS Sassoon Hair Designer Airstyle, $59.95, is designed to help you get straight hair that still has body and movement (as opposed to a poker-straight look you tend to get with hair irons).

It's an all-in-one styler that you can use to untangle hair before styling. It gently straightens hair and delivers shine and gloss.

Ideal for short and mid-length hair, the Airstyle has four styling settings for hair that ranges from wavy through to curly and frizzy.

TRYING Neutrogena Rapid Clear Cleansing Pads, $13.49.

When we're stressed and tired pimples appear and these nifty little pads promise to deep-clean skin so well they prevent break-outs before they happen. If it's too late for preventive measures use with Neutrogena Rapid Clear Acne Eliminating Spot Gel – it's death to pimples in eight hours.

BUYING Joico K-Pak Sheen Serum, $27.

If Reese Witherspoon uses this heat-activated straightening balm to control her frizz (who knew she had any?) it's good enough for us. It calms rebellious hair while rebuilding and protecting damaged tresses.

HOT TREND

● Line-defying make-up is the latest thing in cosmetics right now and Innoxia has launched a foundation that not only provides great coverage but promises to reduce wrinkle depth by up to 62.8 per cent in just 28 days.

Innoxia Line Defying Make-up SPF 20, $39, contains groundbreaking and smoothing ingredient Snap-7. This is a natural amino acid that aims to target the muscles that contract and create wrinkles in much the same way as botox. Obviously it doesn't paralyse the muscles the way botox can so you can still frown when someone really annoys you!

THIS WEEK WE'RE

LOVING Evolu After Workout Shower Pack, $39.

It's a perfect size for your gym bag and this unisex collection of shower essentials enriched with oils and plant extracts helps you re-energise after exercise.
